WHAT? – Key Knowledge

A traditional tale is a story that has been told over and over from a long time ago. They are sometimes called fairy tales. They often include things like animals that act like people, witches, fairies, trolls, magic and wishes. They might teach a lesson and can be about good beating evil.

Traditional tales usually start with the words 'Once upon a time' or sometimes 'Long ago and far away.' They might finish with the words 'They lived happily ever after.'

Traditional tales often have words or phrases that are repeated.

The Three Billy Goats Gruff

This story has 3 goats, one big, one middle-sized and one small. They live in a field next to a bridge. They want to cross the bridge to eat fresh grass but there is a troll who lives under the bridge.

Famous words from the story are...

"Who's that trip-trapping over my bridge?"

The Gingerbread Man

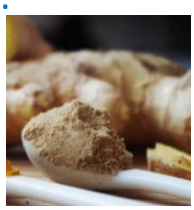

A little old woman makes gingerbread one day and when it bakes in the oven it comes to life. He runs away so it can't be eaten but then comes to a river and meets a crafty fox.

Famous words from the story are…

"Run, run as fast as you can. You can't catch me I'm the gingerbread man."

Gingerbread is a type of biscuit made with warm spices like ginger, nutmeg and cinnamon.

Ginger comes from a root that grows under the ground, we often use it for baking when it has been dried and ground into powder.

Telling a Story

We can learn stories 'off by heart' this means we can remember the story and tell it without reading it from a book.

We can use things like puppets, models or masks to help us act out and retell stories. We can change our voice to help us sound like different characters.

Stories have to be told in the right order so we use words like first, then, after that and next to help us.

First	Then	After that	Next	Finally
